Christian Olesen (above), chief technical officer of Mobitex Technology AB in Sweden, has been appointed vice chairman of the Mobitex Association, the worldwide forum for Mobitex network operators, manufacturers, software developers and customers. He replaces Folke

Bergqvist. Kevin Swann, chairman, said: "Christian brings immense worldwide experience within the narrowband field to the Mobitex board. He offers us in-depth technical knowledge from the perspective of system, architecture and software structure alike, and we believe his contribution to the continued success of Mobitex will be invaluable." Mr Olesen's first task was to welcome members of the Mobitex Association at their annual conference in New York last month. With more than 30 networks operating on five continents, Mobitex claims to be the largest wireless data market and the only truly global market.
